ABOUT THE JUDGE

Henning Haupt, PhD

Henning Haupt is a painter and teacher for architectural design. His paintings explore color spaces in regard to color materials and application techniques. These color spaces, positioned in an architectural context via three-dimensional objects were the basis for his praxis-based research project 'Experiments in Color'. The integration of color in architectural design processes is focus in his current teaching at Florida Atlantic University. Haupt had his studio in Berlin and was teaching at the Technical University of Braunschweig until 2008. He studied architecture and painting in Germany and the United States at the Cranbrook Academy of Arts, Michigan.
